

Memorial Cityzen: Leaning into a Beautiful Fall

As fall settles in, we're building wardrobes that prioritize versatility and exude confidence. Layers are autumn's buzz word, and for good reason: Mornings and nights are cooling down, but Houston days remain warm. These more temperate evenings are making us crave heartier comfort, from gumbo to pasta to steak, while sunny days are coaxing us outside for open-air events such as the Memorial City Fall Fest and Market, set for October 17. Keep scrolling to see our staff picks for gourmet eats, chic shopping, luxurious getaways, and more!

Fall Fest and Market

Mark your calendar for the Memorial City Fall Fest and Market on Sunday, October 17 from 10am-3pm! The day will be filled with wonderful family fun such as food trucks, hay rides, kids treats, live music, and a pumpkin patch benefiting Epilepsy Foundation Texas. There will also be a vibrant farmer's market featuring everything from fresh produce to handmade jewelry, custom clothing, fresh salsas, and so much more. Join us under the tents next to Torchy's Tacos and Mia's Table at 1035 Gessner Road north of the Katy Freeway.

Michael Kors

Build your luxe fall wardrobe, layer by layer. With Michael Kors, you'll have everything you need to stay posh and warm this fall!

The Rouxpour

As temperatures drop this weekend, we'll celebrate with warm Cajun comfort food at The Rouxpour! Voted the Best in Houston, The Rouxpour's mouthwatering Seafood Gumbo features lump crab, Gulf shrimp, jalapeño sausage and white rice.

Sephora
